The Notion of an Ideal Audience in Legal Argument (Law and Philosophy Library) George Christie
As the dedication of this book suggests, the genesis of this book arises from my association with Cha'im Perelman. Because I was one of the few Americans to comment on his TraUe de l' argumentation: la nouvelle rhétorique, before it was translated into English, I was invited to a conference celebrating the translation of that monumental work into English that was held in August 1970 in Santa Barbara, California at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, which was then under the directorship of the late Robert M. Hutchins. From that beginning, Professor Perelman and I developed a strong and warm friendship which was cemented when Professor Perelman and his wife, Fela, came to North Carolina in 1979 as a fellow at the National Humanities Center. I enjoyed the occasions on which I was able to participate in the activities of the Centre National de Recherches de Logique which had been established, under Professor Perelman's aegis, in Belgium. A trip to Brussels was always something to which I looked forward. Since Professor Perelman's sudden and untimely death in January 1984, shortly after he had been singularly honored by being made a baron by King Baudouin, I have benefited greatly from my participation in the programs of the Perelman Foundation which was established through the generosity and efforts of Baronne Fela Perelman; a remarkable woman in her own right who has now sadly also passed away.
